January 2025

Purpose

- To outline why mental health promotion and prevention are important elements of our whole system efforts to improve the mental health and wellbeing of Trafford's population
- To highlight the evidence base for effective practice across the lifecourse and share examples of work being taken forward in Trafford
- To outline opportunities for further developing and embedding mental health promotion and prevention
- To update on progress of establishing a whole systems approach to mental health and wellbeing in Trafford: All Age Mental Health, GM mental health and wellbeing strategy, Trafford mental health need assessment and delivery plan
- To invite the Board's views on the prioritisation of mental health promotion and prevention work

What do we mean by mental health promotion and prevention and taking a public mental health approach?

- Taking action at a population/systems level to promote wellbeing and prevent mental health conditions before they develop or worsen. It complements treatment and provision of mental health services
- Addressing the underlying causes of mental distress
- Improving environments/settings where people live, work, learn and play
- Health equity, ensuring fair access to health for all groups

Mental health is more than absence of mental illness

Mental health is a fundamental part of everyone's health

Mental wellbeing

How people feel and function (being able to cope with the normal stresses of life, work productively and contribute to the wider community).

Improving mental wellbeing is also key to improving the quality of life and recovery of people with mental illness.

Mental illness

Refers to meeting diagnostic criteria for a mental disorder. This includes common mental disorders like generalised anxiety disorder and depression, and severe mental illnesses, such as bipolar disorder or psychosis. A person's diagnosis may change several times during their life or they may be experiencing one or more of these problems at one time.

People with diagnosed mental health illness can be in a state of good mental wellbeing with the right support and self-management

Social determinants of health. Source: Dahlgren and Whitehead, 1991

There is a well-evidenced link between social, economic and environmental factors and mental health. These 'determinants' interact in complex ways to shape the mental health of individuals and the population.

Our state of mental health is dynamic - it changes over time and according to circumstances. It is influenced by multiple determining factors
